

Environmental/Toxic Tort Practice

New Jersey/New York Overview

The New Jersey and New York offices of Gordon & Rees have extensive experience in representing defendants in toxic tort litigation. With more than a decade of experience, the team's seasoned litigators have represented a wide variety of defendants in asbestos litigation including one of the largest metropolitan area insulation contractors, national boiler companies, friction defendants, large equipment manufacturers as well as local insulation contractors and hardware stores.

The litigation team has represented clients throughout New Jersey as well as every major New York jurisdiction from Buffalo and Rochester to Albany and the five boroughs of New York City and many smaller counties.

In addition to making hundreds of court appearances in defense of these matters, the Environmental/Toxic Tort litigation team has appeared at thousands of depositions and exchanged every form of discovery currently used. The group's comprehensive experience includes planning discovery, participating in evaluation of medical records and discovery responses, preparing corporate witnesses for deposition, trial preparation, settlement negotiations and litigation strategy.

The team has also defended fuel oil discharge cases in New Jersey and currently defends such matters involving a large nationally known oil company as a party.

Environmental/Toxic Tort Practice

New Jersey/New York Overview

Representative Clients:

Borg Warner
Peerless Boiler Company
Okonite
Robert A. Keasbey Company
Zaentz Hardware Company
Manitowoc Crane Company
J Fegely & Sons
Grove Crane
W.A. Tydeman

Representative Matters:

Wrongful death claims with significant medical and scientific issues relating to:
Pulmonology
Pathology
Epidemiology
industrial hygiene
Mineralogy

